DRAMATIC SECTION TO GIVE FIRST PLAY

ON Friday, February 24th, the Dramatic Section of Arts and Crafts will present its first bill. While the program has not been announced, it has been ascertained that the bill will be made up of two one-act plays and a dance intermezzo.

The intention of the play committee to put before the audience products of Carmel pens, acted by Carmel talent, will be carried out so far as possible during the next few months.

Carmel audiences will have the opportunity to attach the seal of its approval to the efforts of the dramatic section or to turn down its collective thumb against it. Such productions as may please the discriminating taste of Carmel will be gathered into a repertoire to be held ready for presentation as and when occasion arises.

It is considered possible that the performance will be repeated on Saturday, February 25th.

The first item on the opening bill will be a folk play written by Jeanne d'Orge. While the playlet had a tentative performance at Boston some time ago, and has since been included by Morris Brown in his schedule for the Cornish players, Carmel will be the first to see the complete and final revision of the playlet appropriately staged.

The setting will be done by Cornelius Botke and the members of his staff and promises to be as near an approach to that intended by the author as the mechanical means at Mr. Botke's disposal will allow.

The cast includes Charis Boke, Grace Wickham, E. Phyllis Cook, Jeanne Burton, Adrienne Richards, Jessie Arms Botke and several others.

The dance intermezzo will be the first appearance before a Carmel audience this winter of Portia Mansfield's pupils. The third number on the bill is a comedy wrung from the shy, devious, lambent pen of—but let that remain a secret.

High Honors are Bestowed on California Musician in London

Miss Harriet Pasmore of San Francisco, an unusually fine contralto, has been honored by the London Chamber Music Society with a place among the great artists of Europe. This is an honor rarely given to an American, and Miss Pasmore is the first western girl to receive it. Miss Pasmore is one of a family of musicians long favorites in San Francisco. When she first was presented in San Francisco at the Hotel St. Francis in 1919 Miss Pasmore appeared with her three talented sisters. Their fathre, H. B. Pasmore, also was a talented musician.

Lincoln Service in Carmel Church Next Sunday

The one hundred and twelfth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President of the United States, occurs next Sunday. Rev. Fred Sheldon announces that the morning service at the Carmel Church will be a Lincoln celebration. The church should be crowded to the doors.

THE GREAT EQUALIZER

Known of All Nations—Worshiped in Some—Loved in Many—Honored Universally—Millions of Human Documents Bear Testimony to His Achievements—His Natal Day Commemorated Wherever Social Order Exists.

TODAY, when all the world is seeking a way out of the ten-fold maelstrom of social and economic chaos, one's mind instinctively turns to the life and achievements of Abraham Lincoln. Were there a Lincoln now in the White House can one imagine the sick and disabled soldiers of the World War begging on the streets of our large cities?

Were there a Lincoln in the White House today, can one conceive of Japan, or any other power, forcing a reversal of every cherished national tradition since the inception of the Republic?

Can it be conceived that Lincoln would sanction the seating of men in the United States Senate about whose title to a seat in that body there was any doubt?

The world's great need is another Lincoln. He will come. Meantime we, our children, and our children's children must have placed before them a thorough knowledge of Lincoln's character and accomplishments.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES APPROVE BOND ISSUE FOR FIRE AND HALL

Enthusiasm of Taxpayers Raises the Ante to $20,000, Which Not Only Provides for the Present, But Contemplates the City's Future Growth

THERE was plenty of pep and enthusiasm at the Board of Trustees meeting last Tuesday night when the proposed bond issue was brought up. All of twelve representative citizens attended the meeting and were practically unanimous in their indorsement of bonding the city for $20,000 to be spent in providing fire apparatus and a city hall.

B. W. Adams was called upon for a report on the proposed fire apparatus, with prices for same. He recommended a "booster" pump, which is a combination of engine, ladders, hose and chemical, with a motor driven auxiliary. This is supposed to take care of such problems as are facing us, among which are low pressure, small number of hydrants, etc. There was a general discussion on the part of the townspeople present as to the inadequacy of the water mains, rotten condition of the present pipes and hose, high insurance rates due to the constant fire menace, and the uncertainty of future housing of the fire siren and any apparatus which may be required in the future.

The plan for a city hall, with offices for clerk and marshal, with vault and modern equipment, a board room with ample accommodation for the public, and housing for fire apparatus and siren, was also discussed. It was agreed that the amount previously suggested—$15,000—was much too inadequate, and when the resolution was finally passed indorsing the project, $20,000 was the amount agreed upon.

Dr. Burton, C. H. Yates, H. P. Larouette, P. K. Gordon, Mrs. L. A. Shipley, Mrs. Maude Arndt, Perry Newberry and several others addressed the board, most of them giving strong and sufficient reasons for indorsing the bond issue.

Perry Newberry spoke at some length, calling attention to several facts which he thought should be considered carefully before taking definite action in the matter. He also questioned the advisability of placing the bond issue on the ballot in April.

Mayor Kibbler called for a vote of those present who favored the $20,000 plan. The hearty chorus of "ayes" left it hardly necessary for him to call for another vote, and the trustees felt justified in passing a resolution to that effect.

The ordinance No. 43, providing for the city planning commission, was given its last reading, and in thirty-one days it becomes effective. The following citizens were appointed members of the commission: Dr. Alfred E. Burton, C. Sumner Greene, Susan Creighton Porter, Jessie Arms Botke, and Thomas B. Reardon. The personnel of this commission includes a civil engineer, an architect, and representatives of the literary, artistic and business elements of this community.

The commission also includes the city engineer, the city attorney, and the chairman of the board of trustees.

The report of F. E. Wood, who was appointed to audit the books of the city, was read and approved. In it he stated that the books and accounts of the city had been kept accurately, and complimented the city clerk and treasurer for the efficient manner in which the accounting had been done.

Miss L. R. Lichtenthaler brought up for discussion the apparent injustice of charging on each lot separately the costs and penalties that are attached for tax payment delinquency. The suggestion was made that the lots adjoining each other be included in a single charge for delinquency and not assessed separately. The board agreed to take the matter under consideration.

The regular routine business was transacted. Added to the regular bills were those of Frank E. Woods, public auditor, and H. P. Larouette, electrical inspector.

The board adjourned to meet next Tuesday evening, February 14th.

RAISE YOUR VOICE FOR CARMEL

CARMEL is noted for accomplishing whatever it undertakes. Just getting by with a proposition is not good enough. It must be better than well done, or Carmel suffers in reputation. And the reason Carmel has a reputation to sustain is that its people are behind its endeavors with brains and ability.

"The Crucifixion," Sir John Stainer's beautiful oratorio, is to be sung at the Forest Theater on the afternoon of Good Friday, by the musical section of Arts and Crafts. Thomas V. Cator is directing. Rehearsals are being given each Thursday evening at Arts and Crafts hall. Fifty to sixty singers are working hard in preparation. Progress is eminently satisfactory.

But Carmel must get behind this affair—help it to success. There are many singers here who are not rehearsing. There are fine voices in the town that have not been heard in this chorus. Male singers are particularly shy in coming forward. More tenors and bassos are necessary. To make this affair what Carmel may be proud of every man and woman who can sing, should sing; and every rehearsal should be crowded.

The alternative is that people from other cities must be brought in to assist, and this endeavor then becomes other than a local one. Make that unnecessary by getting behind and helping. There are no requisites of initiation, no dues or fees, no necessities of musical education. Bring your voice tonight to Arts and Crafts hall and assist with your lungs.

The Pine Cone Press sells printing.

CARMELENOS TELL OF LIFE IN HONOLULU

A most interesting letter from Mrs. George F. Beardley has been received from friends of hers in Carmel in which various unique experiences of hers in Honolulu were described. She was much interested in the cermonies incidental to the funeral of the late Prince Kalanianaole. It was a wonderful spectacle and most impressive partly owing to the fact that he is the last of the royal family and this was the last funersl with the old customs. It was the wish of the Prince that his passing should be marked with simplicity and his widow acquiesced, but the Hawaiian natives would not have it so. There were banks of flowers and old feather kahilis all around the coffin and the men and women waving the smaller kahilis in rhythm, and chanting and wailing. Most of the societies in the town, as well as prominent business men, assisted in the ceremonies. He has done much for his people during the twenty years he has been in Washington as a delegate from Hawaii and is very sincerely mourned by all the people. We quote from Mrs. Beardsley's letter:

"We saw the body removed from the Church to the throne room in the old Palace at midnight, and the funeral procession on Sunday. At night the kukui nut torches, kahilis and men in feather robes surrounding the hearse looked weird in the moonlight and very impressive as they approached the brightly lighted Palace. At the funeral, a ninety-eight year old Hawaiian woman walked the whole distance and wailed at the entrance to the tomb as she had done for many of the royal families before. It is their last link with the old regime and even the white people who have always lived her, feel the loss very much. The procession began with the army, then societies, children, men and women, friends and relatives about the catafalque drawn by two hundred stevedores (an old custom). The procession was just two hours in passing us."

DANCERS "MAKING GOOD"

Pine Cone readers will undoubtedly be interested in the fact that three of our own girls are headliners on the Orpheum Circuit and are traveling from coast to coast. These young ladies, Willette Brown, Frances Hartsook, and Jeanne Fuller, billed as the Portia Mansfield Dancers, are assisting Maryon Vadie, interpretative dancer, and Ota Gygi, former violinist to the Spanish Court, in an act that is a "decoration to vaudeville". To quote further from newspaper cuttings: "The dancers offer a series of original divertisments done gracefully and with almost perfect execution. Dancing on a dimly but effectively lighted stage, the ease and grace of the dancers' movements is enhanced by the use of some very light and airy fabric which floats strangely through the air as they leap about the stage."

The Pine Cone can handle that job of printing for you at the right price.

Vagrant Impressions of the Pine Nut

Our Village Solons Converted Into Excellent "Squirrel Food"

AN awful feeling that that black cat of Mrs. F. G. Williams across the street is going to bring me bad luck, is all-pervasive. It is probably a descendant of the feline Sims that first hoodooed Ocean avenue. It scampered in front of me today and flipped a flirtatious tail in my path just as I was thinking of the next installment of "squirrel food," and, do you know that I was making up my mind at the time to tackle the Board of Trustees? Ever since then I've had the shivers when I think of it. I'll just bet anything I possess that I'll hurt some one's feelings or make some sensitive soul mad or disgruntled before I'm through, but I've had a reckless feeling all day since the sun came out, and I must do something to get rid of it.

Did you ever stand before a yawning abyss and feel an irresistible desire to plunge in? Well, I have and I don't know anything more abysmal than a political situation in a small town. Did I hear some one say, "But Carmel has no politics?" I have a tin ear and I can't hear such things. If two people were marooned on a desert island, there'd be two political parties within twenty-four hours. And why shouldn't there be? It's all just a difference of opinion, and in this dear old American nation, we are not only encouraged to have opinions but are allowed to express them,—so we form little groups of those who think somewhat the same on questions of government and we have politics—but you don't want all this stuff from me about something you know more about than I do.

Anyhow, our little village is just seething these days with political jabber, and, woman-like, I can't help sticking my finger into the political pie and poking around a little to find out what's in the filling,—but, I tell you, it's all due to that parish cat. Durn her! It's probably a "her". They say cats usually are, only most of us would rather be called kittens.

You see what I'm up against! If I say that I like George Dorwart (and I do) them as don't will call me nutty, and if I say I don't, them as do will think I'm bugs. Before I go any further, I want to beg of you not to blame the Pine Cone nor Bill Overstreet for any of this. Bill has enough to answer for during the last seven years and far be it from me to add wrinkles to the editorial brow, but I'm going to wade right in and say some things I've been thinking.

Some of my best friends will think I'm crazy and I don't deny it (ain't I the Nut?) but the lovely thing about my friends is that they're real friends, regardless of what I do or think. Why can't the people of a community get that same angle toward each other? Why can't we tell each other what's what and call each other names, and then look into each other's eyes way down and see the bare sweet human soul that's there. I can't imagine anything more uninteresting than if everybody in Carmel wanted that monument to be just exactly as it is, and suppose every man, woman and child in Carmel had simply loved a bitumen pavement. We'd have all been skidding around for a whole winter already and just think of the fun we'd have missed at Salinas, and the assurance of peace in Carmel for the next fifty years wouldn't have offset the joy I got out of those six big grease spots on the wall of that courtroom behind the jurors' seats, and to hear Judge Bardin exclaim in so confused and troubled a fashion,—albeit judicially—"And where IS Ocean Avenue?" was worth the cost of the trip in gasoline and punctures.

Some one has said that Carmel is never so united as when we're having a row, and we really do have good times when we're scrapping. We certainly are a funny little community,—some one has said a "city of the successfully single"; some one else, "a city of discarded wives", although some poker players have been known to break a pair of Queens to draw to a flush—but the fact remains that we are a city of individualists. We think things out for ourselves, we refuse to be led around by a halter, we have very fine, firm and strong ideals and we fight fiercely to keep them enthroned, and the Board of Trustees are just as individual, and just as "sot", and just as honest as the rest of us,—probably no more and no less. I believe they stack up pretty well the way the rest of us do. If I were on the Board, which, thank Heaven I'm not and don't want to be, I'd probably put the city to a big expense cutting down that hump on Monte Verde Street just in front of my property, and I doubt if I'd be very keen to pave Ocean Avenue if I had as many lots to pay taxes on as Mr. Kibbler has. I'm free to confess that I'd probably make a mistake once in a while if I were a City Father. I think the present Trustees have made several, and I'm not alone in that—Judge Bardin thought so too—but I honestly believe that THEY DIDN'T THINK they were making them, and after all, isn't that the real standard by which we should judge? Isn't it the purity of motive that counts?

And who are any of us that we should throw stones? Have you never put the choicest goods on top when you wanted to make a sale? Have you never snatched an olive from the barrel when the groceryman turned his back? Have you never advised your best friend to buy a piece of property that you knew was valueless? Have you never soldiered a little on your job or charged up some extra time to your employer? Have you never stolen another's love and loyalty and not given a fair exchange? Fie, Fie! All the grafters are not in the City Halls. I believe there are a few people in the world just as bad (and just as good) as Mike Murphy, and Bill Kibbler's soul is not the only whited sepulcher since the year one. Just a minute, please. I started talking about the political situation and I just got so carried away with my own observations that I've forgotten which side I'm on.

It seems that the present Board (God bless 'em! —might as well bless 'em as cuss 'em) are going out of office in April and a new Board is to be elected. That's not so bad. We've got a chance to demote four citizens of our commonwealth and to place four other good men and true within graft's mighty grasp. (Try to say that three times fast.) Think of placing four honest men in close proximity to the City's funds even with Gus and Saidee as guardians of the treasure. It's almost more than human nature can stand.

I'd just love to give the world some intimate sidelights on these five who now control the city's destinies and they're all such rattling good sports that I don't think they'd care. Anyway, they'll say, "Oh, it's only the Pine Nut. What does she amount to?" Well, maybe I don't amount to much but I'm free, white and twenty-one, and then some—and I'm an American citizen and I own part of this paper, and if I want to speak my mind, I'm going to and if they want to sue me for libel, they can. They can't get anything out of me because there ain't nothin' to get and if they try to club me on my way home some dark night I'll sic Brownie on them.

Taking it all in all, our present Board average up pretty well. Mike Murphy and George Dorwart average up in flow of language and Court Arne and Doc Kibbler in political diplomacy. Tom Reardon averages up all by himself. He's not lacking in the use of his mother tongue and he doesn't suffer any through having relations on the New York police force. Argyll Campbell kind o' strings along with Tom. He's not bumptious, but he can protect himself all right.

The weight of the world settles on the Mayor's shoulders when he calls the meeting to order. When he reads the communications of the evening I can just hear him "rending" the ministerial lines of Pomander Walk. He counts three at a period, two at a semi-colon and one at a comma and then goes bravely on. Bill really likes fair play. When some worthy citizen is outside the rail, Bill never fails to ask him if he would care to address the Board. Mr. Kibbler has been on the Board a long time. He and Mr. Arne were Trustees when the movement started to pave the streets running north and south, which was really the beginning of our commercial prosperity.

Courtland Arne, so everyone says, has a conscience, and what's more, he listens to it. He is faithful to small duties and can be depnded upon to attend to anything which may be assigned him. He has full charge of the fire and police departments and it is due to his efforts largely that we have a fire siren.

Michael J. Murphy is our street commissioner. It is his duty to keep the streets in repair as far as the City's funds will permit. He gives much of his time and effort to this work.

Thomas J. Reardon has charge of the Lights and Water System. It is well that his duties are not heavy for if he worked any harder he'd get thin.

George M. Dorwart in point of service is the youngest member of the Board. He was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. E. K. De Sabla. I don't know him so well as the rest, but when I first met him we had some "woids", and when that was over, we both felt that our acquaintance had really begun.

The question is, Are we going to return these people to office or are we not? Some of them have said that they don't wish to be returned. It is rather a thankless task, but it's only natural to suppose that having begun certain public improvements it would be rather interesting to see them to their finish, especially when the finish is as long delayed as the Ocean Avenue paving.

I've heard several other names mentioned as possibilities,—all of them good. There's Captain Wm. L. Maxwell, H. W. Askew, C. H. Yates, Grace McGowan Cooke and Miss Emeline Harrington. I'm strong on having a woman on the Board. Suppose she hasn't the judicial mind. Who wants a judicial mind? Not me. I'd rather have a woman that would save a tree or keep those ugly signs out of our beautiful woods than have one that would talk intelligently on bonded indebtedness. Leave the financial part of it to the men. Poor slaves! That's all they're for, anyway. Give us a warm-hearted, idealistic woman on the Board—preferably a woman who still likes feminine fripperies—and a lot of things will receive attention that men might neglect. Of course she should have poise and dignity and shouldn't turn the Board meeting into a pink tea every Tuesday night, but then there are half-way stations.

The present Board have, of course, done those things that they ought to do and have left undone those things that they ought not to have done—wait a minute until I've straightened this out. I've been trying so hard to get through that I'm all mixed up—I mean that they've done those things which they ought not to have done and have left undone those things which they ought to have done,—but,—when Mike Murphy let's loose that rare smile of his, and George Dorwart sparkles his black eyes around at me and Court Arne looks so sweetly serious—or seriously sweet (what's in a name?) and Tom Reardon gives me another month to pay my last August bill and Bill Kibbler says, "Nut, go out and buy ice-cream for the crowd and put it on the next prihting bill," my heart just melts. I can't help it.

Now, after all is said and done, tell me—am I a strong fearless man or just a plain weak, driveling idiot. Thank you! I knew I was.

OFFICE OF THE CLERK, CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, COUNTY OF MONTEREY, STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

I, Saidee Van Brower, Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, a Municipal Corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of the delinquent tax list of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea on the Assessment Roll of 1921 for the fiscal year 1921.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand as such Clerk and the official seal of said city, this 21st day of January, A. D. 1922.

(SEAL)

SAIDEE VAN BROWER,
Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

OFFICE OF THE CITY MARSHAL AND EX-OFFICIO TAX COLLECTOR OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all the delinquent tax payers and property owners mentioned and set forth and described in the foregoing tax list on the Assessment Roll of 1921 for the fiscal year 1921, in and for the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, a Municipal Corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, that unless the taxes delinquent, together with the costs and percentages due, as in the above delinquent list set forth, are paid on or prior to Monday, the 20th day of February, A. D. 1922, at ten (10:00) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the real property upon which said taxes are a lien will be sold to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea by operation of law and by my declaration for the payment of such taxes, percentages and costs.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand as such Marshal and Ex-Officio Tax Collector this 21st day of January, A. D. 1922.

AUG. ENGLUND,
Marshal and Ex-Officio Tax Collector of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

What Others Think

"WITH MALICE TOWARD NONE, WITH CHARITY FOR ALL. " "

The Pine Cone solicits articles or communications on constructive public improvement. We desire to give the fullest publicity to both sides of any controversy that may arise. We feel that the people of Carmel can and will discuss fairly and openly, without rancor or bitterness, matters pertaining to the collective life of Carmel. In order to promote a friendly constructive effort, we ask that all contributions be signed. Communications sent anonymously or signed with a fictitious name will not be published.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the measure of fire protection afforded by the present Volunteer Fire Department I would like to emphasize the following points:

First—the elements of risk and limitations of present equipment.

Any forest area, with its carpet of pine needles and under brush, means a high risk that increases in direct ratio to the number of people it contains; consequently, Carmel with its summer population of probably 2500 carries a high natural hazard to which must be added such risks as firecrackers, camp fires, brush burning, and electrical and automobile fires.

As most of our citizens know, the fire hydrants that make such a brave show on Ocean Avenue and Monte Verde street, are purely ornamental at present, in other words, while there is a considerable volume of water available it is at such low static pressure as to be practically useless for fire fighting purposes.

The little chemical engine that has done such good service for the past seven years is of a size and type that large factories buy by the dozen and to rely upon it to protect a town over a mile long is folly—so much for conditions as they exist at present.

Now what do we need to afford a reasonable measure of protection for the immediate future? The obvious answer is, motor apparatus of suitable size that combines both water and chemical equipment.

Such combination apparatus has been developed in the past few years and bids fair to replace the long familiar steam fire engine, except in large cities where special conditions may require the heavy duty pumps.

These combination outfits carry a compact "built in" centrifugal or rotary pump that is driven by the auto engine, also a chemical tank with its complement of hose and nozzles and from 500 to 1000 ft. of standard 2½ inch fire hose; such an outfit may be fitly termed a complete fire department on wheels.

The installation of such a piece of apparatus in Carmel would enable the tax payers to derive some protection from the monthly charge of $3.00 per hydrant that has so far been a "free will offering" to the Water Co.; this combination of chemical and "booster pump" would take the sluggish current of water that flows from our hydrants and boost up the pressure to an adequate fire fighting velocity capable of delivering as much as 250 gallons per minute through the standard nozzle.

Besides raising the water pressure to a point of efficiency it would carry the chemical equipment that is indispensible for handling oil and gasoline fires and some of the larger types can be had with hook and ladder equipment also.

In view of the fact that something like 300 building permits have been issued in the last two years it would seem good policy for the tax payers of Carmel to give the Volunteer Fire Department adequate tools for the tasks that they may at any time be called upon to face; we can not hope to always play in luck so far as big fires are concerned.

As to the sum of money needed for these two projects, we must remember that it will be poor economy to build for the present needs only. A piece of fire apparatus that might answer for this summer would doubtless be inadequate two or three years from now.

As for the city hall, provision should certainly be made for a room of ample size so that citizens may attend council meetings, and wherein other meetings of a civic nature may be held.

It is doubtful if the sum of $10,000 would properly finance both projects to completion and I personally believe that the tax payers of Carmel will save money in the end by making the bond issue for a larger sum, say $15,000 at least.

Notice to Property Owners

Who are contemplating painting their roofs—will be wise if they use the Kelly Iron-Clad Roof and Metal Paint. This paint is composed of oxide of iron, U. S. Navy pine pitch, asphalt, coal tar, and a substance which is entirely a new discovery by me, it never having been used in trade before outside of this paint. It will not blister, scale or crack, for it dries by chemical action. It forms a coating which is positively water and weather proof. It does the work of both cement and paint in one application. It penetrates through the old paint, filling all pores, making a solid and durable surface, lasting five or six years. The work will speak for itself. A word to the wise. For further particulars and information please call at Carmel-by-the-Sea Drug Store. F. B. KELLY.

Carmel's Rapid Growth Indicated by Number of 1921 Building Permits

Building in Carmel during 1921 reached large proportions. Everyone who was a bit observing knows this to be a fact. It is doubtful, however, if anyone realized the full extent and value of the addition to the town's improved property, and there was but little thought of what the increase involved in the way of addition to the town's income in the matter of tax income.

The city clerk has compiled data showing that during the twelve months of last year 171 building permits were issued. These permits represent new residences, schools, studios, garages, office buildings, shops and sheds, also additions and alterations. The estimated aggregate values stated on these permits totals $244,510.

Most of these estimated costs are exceeded before the work is completed, so that the total does not give the real value of the improvements. It would be safe to assume that the total was nearer $275,000.

The exact figures prepared by Miss Saidee Van Brower, are as follows:

	Permits	Value
Residences	86	$210,650.00
Private Boarding School		10,500.00
Alterations & Additions	50	13,230.00
Studios	3	2,850.00
Garages	25	4,305.00
Offices, Shops, Sheds	6	2,975.00
	171	$244,510.00

Mary Grace Hamilton and Carlton Elridge have begun gladioli farming. They are setting out twelve thousand bulbs of the five best garden varieties including two of the famous Kundred gladioli. During the first year they expect to make some valuable experiments with a view to establishing a number of new varieties. The finest of these will be called the "Carmel".

These progressive people have leased property out on the point for their experiments, but intend later to remove their field of operations to a larger area up the Valley.

Alterations for Little Theatre Under Way

Alterations on Arts and Crafts Hall for the Little Theatre have been started by contractor M. J. Murphy. An additional exit is being made in the rear of the hall, and the seats in the back of the fireplace are being raised in three inch gradations.

To the membership roll of the Arts and Crafts dramatic section have been added these names:

Mrs. Edward A. Kluegel, Thomas V. Cator, Mrs. Jane B. Whitehead, Ralph Whitehead, Mrs. Stubr, Mrs. Harold Crane, Miss Mary Grace Hamilton.

Old-Fashioned Party Tomorrow Evening

The third annual Dickens' Birthday party, under the auspices of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts, will be given at the clubhouse tomorrow evening.

An attractive program has been prepared, including scenes from Dickens' books, and an Old English one act play — "Shades of Night." Dancing and refreshments will add to the good time. Request is made that those attending be attired in old-fashioned garments.

New Federal Game Bird Law is Now Being Rigidly Enforced

The federal law, which prescribes seasons for migratory birds, including wild ducks, geese, gallinules, Wilson snipe, etc., went into effect on February 1st.

This law, which is administered by the bureau of biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, provides, however, that the carcasses of birds killed during the open season may be possessed for an additional period of ten days following the end of the season, if state and local game laws do not prohibit it.

Ordinance No. 43

AN ORDINANCE CREATING A CITY PLANNING COMMISSION FOR THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIFORNIA, AND DEFINING ITS POWERS AND DUTIES.

The Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, do ordain as follows:

Section 1. That there be, and there is hereby, created a City Planning Commission for the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California.

Section 2. Said City Planning Commission shall consist of five members to be appointed by the President of the Board of Trustees of said city by and with the approval and consent of said Board, and in addition thereto the City Attorney and City Engineer of said city, if and when such there be, shall be ex officio full members of said commission; and provided further that the President of said Board of Trustees also shall be a member ex officio of said commission without any right of vote in the deliberations thereof except in case of a tie, when he shall have the right of casting the deciding vote.

Section 3. The five members of the first commission so appointed hereunder shall so classify themselves by lot that one of their number shall go out of office at the end of the current calendar year, two at the end of one year thereafter, and the other two at the end of two years thereafter; provided, however, that upon the expiration of the respective terms of said five members of the first City Planning Commission, as hereinabove set forth, their, and each of their, successors upon said commission shall be appointed as provided above for the appointment of said original five members, and each of such appointments shall be made, and each of said members shall hold office for a term of three years next succeeding the expiration of the term of his predecessor upon such commission.

Vacancies for any unexpired term shall be filled by appointment as in the first instance.

Non-residents of the City of Carmel by-the-Sea shall be eligible for appointment on said City Planning Commission.

Section 4. The members of said commission shall serve without compensation for their services.

Section 5. The members of said City Planning Commission shall meet at least once a month at such times and places as they may fix by resolution. They shall select one of their number as president and another as secretary, and both shall serve for one year and until their successors are elected. In case of their absence, the members of the commission shall select a president or secretary protem, as the case may require.

Special meetings may be called at any time by the president or three members by written notice served upon each member of the commission at least three hours before the time specified for the proposed meeting.

Four members of the commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

The commission shall cause a proper record to be kept of all of its proceedings.

Section 6. Said City Planning Commission shall perform all of the duties and have all of the powers enumerated in that certain act of the Legislature of the State of California entitled "An Act to provide for the establishment, government, and maintenance of City Planning Commissions within municipalities, and prescribing their powers and duties," approved May 21, 1915, and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto; provided, however that said City Planning Commission in addition to the powers and duties referred to above shall have such powers and perform such duties as may be required of it by any law of the State of California now in force or which may be enacted hereafter; and provided further, that said City Planning Commission shall perform such additional duties and have such additional powers as may be required of or granted it hereafter by any ordinance of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, duly enacted by the Board of Trustees of said city within the scope of its municipal authority and jurisdiction.

Section 7. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force on and after the thirty-first day subsequent to the date of its final passage and approval.

Section 8. The City Clerk of said city is hereby authorized and directed to cause this ordinance to be published once in the "Carmel Pine Cone," a weekly newspaper published and of general circulation in said City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

This ordinance introduced by Trustee G. M. Dorwart, at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, held on the 24th day of January, A. D., 1922, at the City Hall in said city, and read for the first time.

This ordinance given its second and final reading at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of said city held on the 7th day of February, A. D., 1922, at the City Hall in said city, and duly and regularly adopted by the following vote:

Ayes: Trustees Kibbler, Dorwart, Reardon.

Noes, Trustees: None.

Absent, Trustees: Murphy, Arne.

I hereby approve the foregoing ordinance this 7th day of February, A. D. 1922.

Wm. T. Kibbler,
President of the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Attest:
Saidee Van Brower,
City Clerk.

ART NOTES

There are more equestrian statues in Washington, than in any city of the western hemisphere. London and Paris are the only cities in the world that can boast of more statues of this type.

The royal arms of King Kalakaua, one of the last of the kingly line of Hawaii, have been embossed on a panel of the saloon wall of the Matsonia, and is the first of series of decorations which Mary J. Coulter of San Francisco, has undertaken to place in ships of the Matson line.

The decoration is in rich colors and gold and silver leaf, correct in historical tradition and so cleverly treated as to have the appearance of an antique coat of arms set in a dark oak panel. In the arms the different islands are represented by stripes of red and blue in the quarterings.

The artist has done several notable pictures of Hawaii, one of which was shown in the Cincinnati museum annual exhibition.

California Sunshine, California Fog, California Wind, Seas and Mountains painted by California artists are the themes of the major portion of the annual art exhibit of the Bohemian club, which closed last Saturday.

One of the best oils is "Sand Dunes" by Chris Georgensen. The usual trite sand dune study of vast white stretches of Monterey county sand would pale before this charming picture.

Francis McComas, who is usually known as a water colorist, showed a composition he calls "Bata ta Kin". The background of cliffs is an indescribible pinkish salmon and on its towering ledges nestle square adobe-like huts of blue and gray. He also had a water color, "Village of Walpi", done in adobe browns and tans. The feeling of the desert and the clarity of its atmosphere is strong.

Two crayon portrait sketches of young women by Matteo Sandano, who has done so many alluring studies of the South seas, are charming.

Complimenting Birdice Blye

A few weeks ago, Miss Birdice Blye, well-known pianiste, gave a concert in Monterey. Just recently, she gave an entirely new program under the auspices of the Women's Civic League in Pacific Grove, and I was confirmed in my first opinion that I was listening to an artist of the highest type. Miss Blye is sincere above all else. In all that she did one felt that her great aim was to faithfully interpret the great masters' works. There was no effort whatever to put her own personality before the public. She showed in everything she played her splendid training under Anton Rubinstein, one of the greatest pianists and teachers.

In her first program the impression she gave was one of power and brilliance. The second program gave her a greater opportunity for delicacy of tone and poetic interpretation. She has been acclaimed a real artist by the press of Berlin, London and New York and has had the honor of playing under Von Bulow and Hans Richter, two of the greatest conductors of orchestra the world has ever known. It is to be hoped that we may induce her to give a concert in Carmel on her return from the north, where she is now engaged in giving concerts. This is the kind of artist we need to hear to give us a broader outlook.

WE ARE SEVEN

It is with a feeling of pride that the publishers of the Pine Cone call the attention of its readers and advertisers to the fact that with this issue begins the eighth year of publication.

Seven years of ups and downs, joys and sorrows, work and more work. Yet, for all the varying periods, we would not have foregone any of them.

We are optimistic enough, our friends and patrons are loyal enough, to encourage us to look forward to another seven years of service to Carmel and its people.

The Pine Cone has always been, and will continue to be, on what the editors themselves regard the side of right. To coincide always with the majority in matters of public weal is not the policy of this journal. Majorities are not always in the right. Nor are minorities. Nor are we. But we endeavor to find the right and proclaim it.

Any success which the Pine Cone has enjoyed is not attributable to its editor and publishers, but to the support and inspiration of the people of Carmel, who, after all, are the real arbiters of the journal's destiny.

May the Pine Cone merit continued growth.

LET'S DO IT—AND DO IT RIGHT!

Bond issues, municipal, county and state, when first proposed, are invariably looked upon with suspicion by the average citizen. Perhaps rightly so. If this "show-us" attitude accomplishes nothing else, it obliges the proponents of the sale of public paper to put forward their best arguments, and in this manner a conspicuous public service is rendered.

The Pine Cone has been made cognizant of little or no opposition to the suggestion that the people of Carmel vote bonds to properly protect itself against fire and to erect a municipal building.

Arguments aplenty have been advanced favoring both propositions. It is doubtful if these arguments can be successfully controverted. One of the strong points to be made favorable to the issue of bonds for fire apparatus is to be found in the fact that during 1921 the value of new building operations in Carmel aggregated nearly a quarter of a million dollars. In the language of one of our business men, we cannot fight fire with a garden hose.

And another citizen observes that the people and officials of Carmel are entitled to a comfortable place in which to transact their public business.

Should the town put up its own building, the bond financing would not work a hardship on anyone. The money now going out in rent would apply on bond redemption. And should an upstairs hall or postoffice quarters be included, sufficient revenue would be forthcoming to pay both the interest and principal on the bonds.

Therefore, it would appear that the proposal of the Board of Trustees to make the issue $20,000 should be endorsed.

The Pine Cone, which initiated this bonding plan for civic betterment, will heartily support the proposition.

Mrs. George Clute and her eldest daughter spent last week in San Francisco.

Mrs. Grant Wallace, Mrs. Calvin Hogle and J. F. Devendorf drove to San Francisco last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Potter of Menlo are spending a month here. Their two daughters are with them.

"Seben, come eleben" might well be the Pine Cone's slogan just now. We begin our eighth year today.

Have you registered yet? There's a city election coming, and you don't get in on it if your name is not on the list.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McCollom have as their guest their daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Harry McCollom of Chicago.

Captain Ward left on Monday for San Francisco to attend to several of his business interests. He expects to return this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Malone and children are here from Stockton, occupying the Hanson cottage. They will be here until about the 15th.

The following amounts are on hand in the county treasury, credited to the Carmel Sanitary District: Bond fund, $1739.77; current expense fund $450.05.

Owen S. White, son of Trumbull White, former editor of Everybody's Magazine, is here from New York, visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. F. A. Steel.

E. D. "Pop" Grace, Columbia Park Boys leader, well known here, is on his way to Australia. He was tendered a banquet in San Francisco the other night.

Mrs. R. H. Brown and Miss Frances Brown of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Yeates of Minneapolis have been guests of Mrs. Frances Steel and Miss Jessie White.

A Washington's Birthday dinner dance is to be given on the evening of Wednesday, February 22, at Rancho La Playa. Early reservations will be appreciated by the management.

On Thursday of last week Mr. and Mrs. Allen Miller arrived from Sacramento, with the idea of spending three months here, except for a business trip which Mr. Miller will take to Chicago.

When Louise Francesca Glassell arrives in her Carmel home she will find that her pa pa has anticipated her coming by providing a newly built sunny nursery on the south side of the family home.

The questionnaire recently issued by the Civic League have been distributed throughout the town. It is hoped that the response of the people will be prompt and painstaking. The committee in charge expect to get valuable data when the answers are tabulated.

Miss Helen Rosenkrans, in company with Miss Eleanor Abercrombie, have been stopping for several weeks at Pine Inn. The ladies are from Eau Claire, Wis. Miss Rosenkrans is the editor and publisher of Chippewa Valley Magazine, which is devoted to the promotion of the agricultural and commercial interests of the valley.

Carlton Eldridge spent last week in San Francisco, combining business with pleasure.

Mr. David Wegg, Sr. will return to Carmel from Edendale before leaving for Chicago.

The Mosher residence on north Carmelo street has been purchased by Mrs. F. S. Brown.

The Carmel Young Men's Clubs have discontinued their meetings until after Easter, April 16th.

After a week's struggle with a bad case of poison oak, Miss Elizabeth Gillis is again able to be out.

Mrs. George J. Seideneck is expected home from Santa Rosa shortly, whence she was called by the serious illness of her mother.

A list of fifty trial jurors for the February session of the Superior Court includes the names of Thomas L. Edler and Paul C. Prince.

It is the plan of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Helem to start construction of their cottage on north Carmelo street about Easter time. Mrs. Helam was down from Berkeley last week.

Colonel and Mrs. Herbert Carlton, recently of Honolulu, have taken a cottage here for a couple of months. At the conclusion of their Carmel stay they will reside permanently in Santa Barbara.

News has been received here to the effect that Michael Williams was called to Rome immediately following the death of Pope Benedict—in what capacity is not stated. He was accompanied by his wife.

A Word to Property Owners

Why get "faked" every year by having your roof painted with gas tar or a fish-oil paint? There is positively no protection in that kind of roof paint. Prices alone prove nothing in roof protection. Quality and price must be considered together to determine money value. F. B. Kelly's Ironclad Roof and Metal Paint is not gas tar, or a fish oil or any other kind of a "fake" paint. Ironclad will give you your money value in roof protection for 5 to 6 years. A word to the wise. F. B. KELLY, Box 35, Carmel, California.

TWO EVENINGS OF DRAMATIC READINGS

John B. Jordan, manager of Pine Inn, has arranged for Dorothea Spinney, English tragedienne, to appear in two dramatic interpretations at Pine Inn. February 16th and 18th are the dates set. On the first evening she will give "Alcestis," and "Hamlet" on the later.

Redfern Mason, musical critic, in a lengthy and favorable article on Miss Spinney's work, concludes with:

"I live in hope that Miss Spinney will give a Greek play at Carmel. Her work would be an admirable incentive to the literary colony down there."

The Oxford Times compares Miss Spinney's voice with the two most beautiful speaking voices on the English stage.

It would seem that Mr. Jordan should be encouraged in his effort to bring to us, on his own responsibility, such a gifted artist, and it is hoped that the people here will show their appreciation by filling the lobby to overflowing.

KIBBLER MAKES PLAIN STATEMENT OF FACTS IN SUPPORT OF BONDS

Justifies Expenditure at This Time, Pointing Out Present "Doghouse" Accommodations and Asking That Issue Be Not Confused With Trustees Election

To the Taxpayers and Voters of Carmel:

REGARDING the discussion now going on in Carmel relative to the proposed bond issue for the acquisition of a fire apparatus and a city hall, the Board of Trustees wish it distinctly understood that the measure does not emanate from them, but is the result of repeated requests from citizens and the Pine Cone to place a bond issue before the people to get a decent city hall, where more than ten people can attend the meetings of the board, and to acquire, as far as our means will allow, a more adequate protection against fire, which is a constant and serious menace to our town, where so many pine trees abound and where there is a very inadequate water system. Any discussion of the measure should be among the people themselves without the trustees being considered in any manner.

The only way of getting this issue before the people is to call a bond election. There has been some criticism about putting it on the ballot at the city election in April. Our object in doing so was to give the people a chance to express their opinion at no expense to the city, and does not involve any candidate in any way, as the incoming board must abide by the results of the bond election.

The amount required is much too large to be raised by direct taxation on the comparatively few people here at present, and the only method left was to do as all other towns have done in similar cases—have a bond issue.

As the city grows the burden will become lighter on the individual taxpayer. The board contemplated a $10,000 bond issue, but was met by the criticism on all sides, "You are not asking enough. Build a hall that will be an ornament to the town and allow for future growth, and get a fire apparatus that will also meet future needs."

Quite a large number were asked to attend the meeting of the board of trustees on the night when the bond issue was discussed. More were invited than the hall would hold, but only a few came. Fortunately, among those who came were men whose opinions are respected and followed in much larger communities than Carmel. A number of ladies were also present. The matter was placed before them and all were asked to state their views, the board taking no part in the discussion.

The almost universal opinion was that the present and future of Carmel would call for a $20,000 bond issue.

When asked as a whole if $20,000 was their choice, all but one answered "Aye."

The trustees accepted their verdict and inserted the amount in the resolution.

It may also be stated that B. W. Adams submitted very interesting and complete data on fire apparatus.

Now, as to our present city hall. The first board of trustees agreed with the owner of the property on a rental of $20 per month, with the privilege of occupying the whole building. The upper part was used as an apology for a town hall, being used by the firemen and sanitary board, by the Red Cross, and, in season, by the Forest Theater for costume work. Last November the owner raised the rent to $40, effective December 1. The board conceded he could get that rental commercially, but believed the price exorbitant for the limited use to which it could be put as a town hall, and that a prominent corner is not needed in which to transact the city's business.

A thorough search for other quarters proved unsuccessful, and a compromise was made on $30 per month, at the same time relinquishing the upstairs of the so-called town hall.

And that is the condition at present.

The board was notified a short time ago that the fire siren could stay where it was for the present, but when the owner wanted the premises the apparatus would have to be removed.

The little 8x12 "shack" that houses all the fire equipment is liable to be ordered off the premises at any time.

Now, does Carmel need a city hall of its own? The city has acquired a block of land which will soon be on a well-paved road.

In the amount called for in the bond issue allowance has been made for putting the property in shape for use as a city park.

In conclusion, let it be made emphatic that in discussing this matter, don't discuss the board of trustees—discuss the real issue. The trustees will have to abide by your decision. Respectfully,

WM. T. KIBBLER,
President Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Joseph G. Hooper and son Tom are here for a few weeks. Mr. Hooper will be down for week ends.

WOMEN'S FEDERATION TO BE RECEIVED IN THE TRUE CARMEL SPIRIT

Every Effort Will Be Made to Make the Meeting Memorable; Splendid Local Talent is Scheduled to Appear, and Much Constructive Work is Mapped Out

ONE writer has described club women as "a body of organized women in every community who can be depended upon to promote whatever leads to the betterment of life." Federation binds with common interests all classes of women—city and country, rich and poor, radical and conservative. It aims to give a sense of unity, to break down group consciousness, group hostilities. Much constructive legislation has been accomplished through our women's clubs. They are also doing much departmental work in art, literature, music, drama, California history and landmarks, child welfare, country life, civics, home economics and industrial and social conditions. Americanization is also coming in for a large share of attention.

The Monterey Federation of Clubs which holds its quarterly meeting in Carmel next Saturday has been a part of the state federation for about two years, and in that time has made long strides in efficiency.

There will be something over a hundred women present, representing all parts of the county, and a very special program has been arranged.

The morning will be spent in routine business, and the afternoon will be devoted to a program gotten up from Carmel talent. Perry Newberry will give a talk on the drama, and it is expected that he will also produce a scene from some local dramatic production.

Thomas V. Cator has charge of some very fine musical numbers.

Salinas is also to be represented in the musical part of the program.

Mrs. V. Mott Porter will give some readings and M. DeNeale Morgan will read a paper on art.

Other "things" peculiar to Carmel atmosphere will be in evidence and it is to be hoped that the ladies will have cause to remember their day in Carmel with as much pleasure as they are finding in its anticipation.

Arrangements are being made to treat the visitors to some sight seeing trips in our immediate vicinity. Persons having autos at their disposal are requested to inform DeNeale Morgan.

The club members are to bring basket lunches, and, in the language of one of the local members, "the drinks" are to be served by the Carmel branch.

The Pine Cone extends its greetings to these progressive women and hopes that our little village will often be chosen as the meeting place for this organization.

An event which will take many people over the hill at Easter time is an evening of dancing at the Monterey theater, by the pupils of the Portia Mansfield school.

BIG FLOOD IN SAN JOSE CREEK STOPS FLOOD OF CARS ON COAST ROAD

Feeling that it had been overlooked in the notoriety given other beautiful works of nature, San Jose creek has at last risen to the notice of Carmel artists and all others who had heretofore crossed its bridge in absent-minded contemplation of more distant scenes.

During the last storm the surplus waters of minor tributaries added to the rising flood until—at about 6 o'clock Saturday evening—the little span gave up the struggle and added its few well-worn planks to the flotsam along the beach and holding up traffic over Sunday. Many machines on week-end trips to points down the coast and also those attempting to come to Carmel, were parked along the road on both sides of the creek, waiting for the man of stunts to attempt a fording. At last a modern Cyrano dashed into the flood, but instead of showing 'em how it was done, he was towed dejectedly out of the ruck by plebeian horses.

An enterprising teamster throve on the necessities of hiking parties and those who were compelled to cross for business reasons. Let it be hoped the little stream will be content with its hour of limelight and promply forget that it became roiled over the fact that Jupiter Pluvius wept not wisely but too profusely.

Invests in Investment Company

Edward G. Kuster has purchased from Leonard W. Perry, on behalf of Los Angeles parties, a substantial interest in the Carmel Investment Co. Richard W. Johnson of Los Angeles, who is now a permanent resident of Carmel with his family, will be the manager of the concern. Leonard W. Perry, under the new arrangement, will still be interested, and will be the outside representative of the firm. When asked why he sold, he said:

"It tied me down too much. I wanted time to attend to my affairs in San Francisco and Canada, and perhaps I will write some more."

DOROTHEA SPINNEY TO GIVE READINGS AT OLD HOSTELRY

We have every reason to believe that the recital at Pine Inn tonight and Saturday are to be well worth attending. It might be well to place another mortgage on the old homestead or to resort to the gentle art of sandbagging to dig up the dollar that it costs to attend.

Dorothea Spinney is great — no doubt of that. Many papers in America and Australia say so—and they should know. Her critics comment extensively on the artistry of her work—her fine intelligence, her deep sincerity, her classic simplicity. One critic claims that her like as a tragedienne is not to be found, another that she has a rare sense of music and rhythm. Says the Drama League of America of one of her performances: "A wonderful interpretation—artistically we feel the finest we have ever had."

J. B. Jordan of Pine Inn is really endeavoring to do something fine for this community. If it were only a local try out that was to be given, there should be a good attendance, but for a real big star the lobby should be crowded and the S. R. O. sign out.

Tickets for Little Theatre to Go on Sale Today

The first program to be presented by the Arts and Crafts Little Theatre is to be given on Friday and Saturday evening of next week, and will be made up of a tragedy, "Crazy Anne," a dance intermezzo, and "As They Sew," a new comedy played for the first time on any stage.

Because of alterations being made in the hall the seating capacity is restricted, therefore those who wish to be numbered among the first nighters should obtain their tickets early.

Sale begins today at the Pine Cone office.

Editor Pine Cone: In re the pronunciation of the name of our town. The Century dictionary, and all other dictionaries, gazeteers and atlases, give it with the accent on the first syllable. It appears in them as the name of that place in Samaria for which Father Serra named this spot.

The good father himself was a Spaniard, and called the place Carmelo, which was the Spanish form of the Hebrew word, the accent falling of course on the middle syllable.

To drop off the "o," and still accent the "mel," is therefore without authority, and the accenting of a final syllable is not proper to English pronunciation. But it's a free country—or we claim it is—and until the trustees introduce an ordinance giving us an official pronunciation of our name, as the legislature of Arkansas did in regard to the name of that state, I see no harm in anyone having the pronunciation of Carmel to suit individual [illegible] and fancy. Grace McGowan Cooke.

"The Sheik" in Monterey

The out-standing players in "The Sheik," which is to be shown in the Strand Theatre, Monterey, today and tomorrow, are Agnes Ayers and Rudolph Valentino. Miss Ayers is a star well known to Paramount audiences, while Valentino won fame in "The Four Horsemen; he has "class," and in the title role of "The Sheik" his dominating personality asserts itself throughout.

Miss Ayers in "Forbidden Fruit" and in "The Affairs of Anatole" has won recognition for dramatic skill.

The Pine Cone is read by 2000 persons every week.

MASTERLY DICKENS INTERPRETATIONS BY LOCAL TALENT

Those residents of Carmel who were unable to attend the Dickens birthday entertainment at Arts and Crafts Hall on Tuesday evening lost an excellent opportunity to appreciate that unique, inimitable atmosphere which is found in the works of the loved old-world author.

The first number was a reading from "The Christmas Carol', by Mrs. Sidney Yard. Next came a scene from "David Copperfield," with Ann Clute and Perry Newberry at the tavern. Cousin Effie McLean and Uncle Joe "Jefferson" Hand interpreted most successfully a scene from "Barnaby Rudge."

Following these acts several fine violin interpretations were rendered by Frederick MacMurray.

Irene Goold impersonated the "infant phenomenon," of "Nicholas Nickleby." She gave a delightful garden dance.

Mrs. J. W. Hand, who had charge of the program, is to be complimented on the success of a most difficult one act play, "The Shades of Night." The cast was well chosen and consisted of Mrs. Alice Ward; Miss Edith P. Cook, George J. Seideneck and Cornelius Botke.

An innovation was the splendid stage lighting, due to the efforts of Herbert Hand and new electrical apparatus.

General dancing and refreshments concluded the evening's doings.

INFLUENCE OF BOYS' CLUB REACHES FAR-OFF

Once a member of the Boys' Club always a member, and when far away the feeling of belonging sometimes brings forth a letter. Very recently the club has heard from as widely separated places as Boston, Anaconda and Equador, to say nothing of Los Angeles and Oakland.

The following letter from Norman Kellogg, at Guayaquil, is interesting enough to pass on:

"My dear Miss Johnson and Miss Culbertson: We left Christobal on the Huallaga and our next stop was Buena Ventura. It is an awful dirty little town.

"We hired a native to carry our things who could talk a little English, and when we went down the street he told all his friends that if you didn't know English you couldn't have this job.

Then we went on to Guayaquil. We lunched at the Hotel Ritz. The Spanish way of handling the plates is to pile them all up in front of you, and they usually have from nine to twelve courses and they serve the first course in the first plate, and so on. In one course they served us some black rice and under it was a baby octopus!

"We took the Olmedo for Santa Rosa and from there we started for Portevelo. We had a fine trip over the trail.

My father has been away at Pasaje with another man, and they certainly saw a lot of wild game. They saw wild turkey, hogs, deer, tiger cats, and a lot of monkeys. A man was breaking a trail along the river bank, and he had to climb up the bank in places, and once, hearing a snarl, he looked up to find himself facing a full-grown tiger or lion, which reached out a paw, scratching him badly on the face. In reaching for his gun he let go of the bushes and fell into the river.

"Once they came to a river where a dozen natives were trying to get across with a herd of goats. They would get them all herded together and then yell and poke sticks at them, but the goats would break right through. When last seen the goats were being ferried across by the horns, one by one.

"Once my father and Mr. M. went from Machalla to Passaje on the train—if it can be called a train. They scared a flock of burros, that ran along the track, beating the train.—Your friend, Norman."

CHEAP RUBBER FROM LOWLY NATIVE PLANT

Director of Carmel Branch of Carnegie Institute Makes Important Announcement--- Result of Experiments Will Revolutionize Rubber Industry

Dr. MacDougal, of the Carnegie Institution, has recently given out a remarkable statement through Edward Marshall. The interview was on the subject of a new source of rubber made especially, but Dr. MacDougal's opinions regarding the inventive age to come, the field of invention in general, are of such interest we are sure our readers will be obliged to us for these extracts.

"We shall have rubber in sufficient quantities to meet our needs," Dr. MacDougal said, without the slightest hesitation, "and I believe that in the days to come our needs will be ten times—a hundred times—as great as they are now.

"It should be decided in the cities, for example, that rubber pavements for the streets, which can be taken up when worn, as blankets might be moved, and replaced by new ones between midnight and daylight, will be worth the effort, I believe that we shall find the rubber out of which to make them. And such is my instructed faith in nature that I feel sure that reasonable wisdom will supply our other future needs as generously."

It is to rubber and its production from plants other than the generally known caoutchouc that Prof. MacDougal has been giving his attention recently under the entirely non-commercial auspices of the Carnegie Foundation.

This first announcement of these facts gives this amazing interview much added interest. Daniel Trembly MacDougal is one of the most distinguished of American scientists. Indiana claims him for a son, but his usefulness has been world wide. He began his distinctive career as assistant director of the New York Botanical Gardens, but in 1906 was called to Washington to take charge of the researches of the Carnegie Institution in the field of botanical science.

For this work the Desert Laboratory had been established at Tucson in 1903. Later a coastal laboratory was set up at Carmel, Calif., and arrangements were made for full collaboration with researchers in various parts of America and Europe.

Dr. MacDougal went on to say, "We can find more than one thing available for any given use. A complete list of the plants from which we derive our foods and textiles must seem pitifully small to any botanist with even a limited expert knowledge of the flora of the world. He knows that there are hundreds other than those on which man now depends principally for his support which could be made available if all or any of these, through tragic magic, should become extinct."

In all this work Dr. MacDougal has played a part which is found to be of paramount importance when another tells of it, but which is sure to seem extremely modest when described by him himself. With his staff, he has carried out desert research work wherever desert areas occur in America, and also in Algeria, Egypt, Australia and South Africa.

"When the English settlers came to what is now this nation," said Dr. MacDougal, "they found temperature and soil that would produce corn and game, and these were all the natural resources that they looked for beyond the spreading forests which would give them wood and fuel and shelter. The Spaniards came here to find gold, and found it. Each new succeeding generation has demanded of America new things. None ever has been disappointed. I think none ever will be.

"Treasures have developed in exact accordance with the meaning at the time of the word 'treasure'. Now we have new ideas of the meaning of that word. Some there are who talk of the exhaustion of our natural resources, which are our greatest treasure, but we whose field is science are beginning to feel sure that this need not occur, that new sources of supply continually are to be found by those who realize and search and understand.

"This is absolutely true in the fields of agriculture and engineering—the one being that of raw material production and the other that of its utilization.

"If we should destroy all our present starch producing plants, science would suggest a thousand others which might be developed to replace the supply. This might take time, which would be serious, but it could be done, so the disaster would not be fatal. The same would be true if our present textile plants should all die suddenly. The Colorado river valley hemp plant is an example of undeveloped vegetable possibilities. Which brings us to the newly discovered or developed source of rubber.

"Guayule rubber (produced now on a practical scale at the Arizona laboratory of the Carnegie Institution), is not exactly like that known as 'Para'. It has special usefulness in the manufacture of most rubber articles, including tires. This cultivation of guayule will be of mighty moment to the industry, and will tend greatly to extend the use of rubber.

"Rubber, once it is produced in quantities sufficient, will be available for thousands of purposes yet undreamed of. At the outset of our talk I mentioned street paving. Wild as that statement may seem now, it may not seem so later on. Copper now is in surplus because its previous scarcity has limited its uses. Soon new uses will make it scarce again. The same is true of rubber. It is safe to say at present that neither the motor industry nor any other will suffer in the future for the lack of it, but that for it many uses now unknown will be discovered."

"Need we actually fear exhaustion of any really essential natural material?" Dr. MacDougal was asked.

"I think not," he answered. "The study of nature's ways and human effort shows that when man's supplies of raw materials run low need and rising prices loose hundreds of inquiring spirits to the study of ways and means for the increase of the supply or for the satisfaction of the needs with other material. Such a state of affairs now exists with regard to the liquid fuel supply."

"Then you do not fear exhaustion for that, either?"

"I do not fear it in the least. The number of trained scientists now engaged in researches designed to keep at hand a full supply of fuel for the world's motor vehicles would amaze the layman.

"The general thought that I should wish to convey to the public is that the fear that civilized and developed man will slip on any of these problems is a pessimism not in the least justified by any probability. With the facilities for research now available, it is impossible for me to believe that mankind can be halted in his quick advance by any problem.

"If our trained scientists should find themselves in the, to me, unthinkable extremity of being unable to unlock the necessary stores of energy for heat and light, for instance—in other words, if coal and oil should fail us, and if we could not utilize electricity supplied by our vast undeveloped hydraulic powers—we still have streaming down on us every day unlimited power wealth in form of sunlight, the capture and utilization of which is not to be regarded as a task impossible to human ingenuity.

"I would be the last man in the world to argue against conservation of natural resources. Nothing can justify their waste as we unlock them.

"But at the same time I have complete confidence in the ability of nature to supply us in future, and increasingly in accordance with the demands created by our own development, as she has done in the past."

ALL THAT WAS LACKING

Carmel Has at Last Come Into Its Own—Last Tie That Bound Us to Primitive is Gone

A Dublin riot in miniature, someone has described it, but a rush of refugees for food would be more appropriate. The scene, Bob Leidig's. The time, ten minutes before nine o'clock Monday morning last.

Clamoring for admission and madly striving for places near the door, a howling mob of several hundred women and John Williams eagerly awaited the hour set for the opening of the aluminum sale. The police reserves were called to maintain some semblance of order, and with Marshal Gus Englund riding at their head, they made a fine spectacle—dashing into battle.

So eager were the customers to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity that they struggled with one another for the possession of double boilers, percolators, griddles and stew pans. At nine thirty the sale counter looked as if it had been done with a Hoover. It was bare as the bones of a Christmas turkey the day after.

Bob has one souvenir of the battle—a badly battered thermos bottle, which he dug out of the wall, where it had been imbedded during the fray.

Visit the battlefield.

Register for City Election

About two hundred and fifty citizens have registered to date. The same number have yet to do so in order to vote at the city election on April 10. Registration closes on March 10.

Nominating petitions for city trustee have been filed by George M. Dorwart, William T. Kibbler, Charles S. Yates. Four trustees are to be elected.

The proposed $20,000 bond issue proposition for a city hall and fire fighting equipment will also be submitted to the voters on April 10.

Kindly Spare Our Blushes, Which Outrival the Crimson Flushes the Peony Flings at the Rose.

The Carmel Pine Cone is now in the Eighth grade, having graduated from the seventh year of its publication last week, and entered on the eighth yesterday. The Review editor, then publishing the Los Gatos Mail, remembers calling on the Pine Cone when it was in its swaddling clothes, and its daddy looked almost scared to pieces. However, W. L. is coming on fine and publishes one of the most unique and best weeklies in California. Was a time a while back when he thought he had a glimpse of doubtful honors in the state legislature with a halo, but he fortunately permitted the cup to pass by him. Whether or not the vision will come again we do not know, but we know that he has made a mighty fine success of the Pine Cone, and we're willing to place our bet on him that he continues to grow up with the city, where he is a real figure and not a cipher. Stay with it, W. L.—Pacific Grove Review.

The Highbrow and the Home Paper

The sort of newspaper that would be published if everybody edited it would be something wonderful, but nothing that anybody would subscribe for. The newspaper business is perhaps the most competitive of any in existence. People who make up newspapers must have the mass of the people in mind every moment. No newspaper can live by catering to a chosen few. There is not in any community enough business to support a large newspaper designed especially for what are slangily called the high-brows. The high-brows are a vague class, but are commonly supposed to be the type of citizens who take no interest in any subject except one concerning things that would be discussed in a faculty or a fine arts convention or a symposium of the higher clergy.

No newspaper made to fit a clientele of intellectuals or near-intellectuals could subsist itself on what the intellectuals would be willing to pay. A new author made himself unpopular some time ago by saying that as far as he had observed most of the criticisms of his book had come from that class of readers who never buy books, but are keen for borrowing them and picking them to pieces. It might be said of some of those who are severest in their condemnation of the newspaper that they do not have to pay its bills nor do they contribute very much to its support.

California Literature to Be Brought to the Fore

Authors, artists, dramatists in the bay region held an informal pow-wow recently to consider "a plan to write California literature on the map of great expositions".

Everything that California produces from pet chickens to prize heifers, from cracker crab to petroleum, has been exhibited, the invitations state, except the greatest product of them all—California literature.

A proposal to consolidate the authors, artists and dramatists of the state in a grand carnival was presented.

Among those on the invitation list of forty were Frederick R. Bechdolt, Louis J. Stillman, George Sterling and James Hopper.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

OPPORTUNITY

(By WALTER MALONE)

They do me wrong who say I come no more,
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away,
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I burn the records of the day;
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanish joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.

The deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep,
I lend my arm to all who say I CAN!
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man.

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?
Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?
Then turn from blotted archives of the past,
And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rise from thy spell!
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven!
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

The book describes fully the artists and theories of the new movement and then proceeds to study the breakdown of realism and the development of a new type of play and playwright. Mr. Macgowan's volume easily supersedes all other books on the modern theatre. And its beautiful format and exquisite illustrations make it a treasure to the booklover as well as to all who are interested in the drama.

Marguerite E. Harrison has never done anything better than "Marooned in Moscow." As though some evil spirit had cast a great city (Moscow) under a spell of stillness and decay. A city of empty shops, vacant windows, deserted streets; of furtive meetings, of cautious words, of countless spies. This is the Moscow in which Mrs. Harrison was held prisoner and which she describes unforgettably. Her story is dramatic and convincing and its truth may be judged from the fact that it is attacked by both sides—those who favor the Soviet and those who don't. If you would know Russia today, read this book. It holds the romance of a dozen novels.

"Simon Called Peter", by Robert Keable, author of "Standing By". The rare spiritual truth and the understanding observation shown in all Mr. Keable's books should win many readers for this surprising novel, which has been described as "the most beautiful and the most outspoken love story of modern fiction." Yet it is almost certain to arouse heated criticism. We should be glad to receive the opinions of those readers able to judge of its significance.

It is the purpose of "The Theatre of Tomorrow" to set forth the ideas behind the new stage-craft, the reforms in the physical playhouse and the changes in contemporary plays which all point toward a new drama. This book, by the dramatic editor of "Vogue" and of the "New York Globe," and one of the leading forces in the Theatre Guild and the Drama League, attempts to outline this new drama in its broader aspects.

John Kendrick Bangs died at Atlantic City on January 20th. He was 60 years old and a New Yorker by birth. He studied law in his father's office. From there he went to Life as associate editor. Later he was associated with Harper's Weekly, the American Edition of Literature, the Metropolitan Magazine and other periodicals.

Perhaps his best known books are "Coffee and Repartee" and "The Houseboat on the Styx." He contributed exclusively to newspapers and magazines and spent part of ten years on the lecture platform. His lecture tours brought him to California on several occasions.

Young Olympians Organize

Carmel has a new organization. Several youths, feeling the need of an athletic club here, have formed the Carmel Junior All-Stars. They will specialize in track events, baseball and tennis, using the grammar school grounds as an athletic field. The charter members are Jack Jordan, president; James Hopper, Jr., vice-president; Richard Boke, secretary; Gordon Campbell, Waldo Hicks, Maurice Stoney, Teaby Nichols, Kenneth Goold, Walter Edgarton and Fred Ammerman.

Lincoln's Birthday Observed

Last Sunday at the Carmel Church Rev. Fred Sheldon gave an interesting address on Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Frederick MacMurray played one of his splendid violin overtures. At the close of the service, two ladies responded to the pastor's inquiry as to whether anyone present had ever seen Lincoln. Mrs. Isabelle Bunting spoke of seeing the President out driving. Mrs. M. H. Jaquith told of attending the funeral.

The sermons in this church for the quarter are from subjects chosen by members of the congregation. The church is making plans for a ten day Easter mission. A new Sunday school building is also a possibility in the near future.

A Political Perennial

"Jim" Taylor, county treasurer, announces that he will again be a candidate this fall for his present job. This will be the seventh time he has been a candidate. He was first elected in 1898. He'll have a hard row to hoe this time. People will remember that $10,000 shortage.

The Blue Bird Tea Room

announces the importation of some plain old Dutch vanity boxes; also some very fine old Obi cloth from Japan. Residents as well as visitors in Carmel will be interested in the beautiful Chinese chests which are being shown at the Bluebird and which are both useful and ornamental.—Adv.

Miss Eva Belle Adams is sojourning in Pasadena for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Bechdolt have returned from San Francisco. They have been away for a month.

No longer is Robert Wells Ritchie a grass widower. His wife has returned from a month's visit in the east.

Mrs. Beulah M. Costa has returned from a week's visit with relatives and friends in her old home town—San Jose.

Cards have been received here announcing the engagement of Douglas Hunter Greeley to Miss Lottie Janett Lake.

Mrs. M. L. Hamlin has departed on a three months' trip. She will visit her son, Clarence, in Birmingham, Alabama.

Mrs. Argyll Campbell has returned from San Jose, whence she was called by the illness of her sister, Miss Charlotte Phelps.

Lillian McCally of Washington, D. C., is here visiting her friend, Mrs. Heath Angelo in the Hartwell cottage for an indefinite period.

This afternoon, at the studio of Herbert Heron a complimentary tea is to be given in honor of Miss Dorothea Spinney, eminent English tragedienne.

Richard W. Johnson, manager of the Carmel Investment Co., has settled in the Cole cottage on San Carlos avenue. Mrs. Johnson, with their two daughters, arrived recently from Los Angeles.

Six lots, adjoining the Comings home on Dolores street, were purchased by Mr. and Mrs. C. Foster last week. They will build soon. Meantime they are occupying a cottage on San Carlos avenue.

The Carmel river is still high, but it has receded considerably since last Friday, when the water was washing over the Carmel river bridge. Highlands school children were able to get into Carmel, however.

Edward A. Abbott passed away at his home here on Tuesday evening. He was a native of Farmington, Me., and had resided here about two years. A wife survives him. The remains were taken to Oakland for cremation.

A visitor on the Peninsula last week was Clay M. Green, who was a guest of his brother, Harry Green, the tree expert. Clay Green is a playwright. Many oldtimers will recall the Green melodramas they witnessed in the San Francisco theaters.

Mrs. H. Louise Schultzburg presented her resignation as county superintendent of schools recently, but it was not accepted by the board of supervisors. The board, on the contrary, postponed consideration until March 6, with the request that Mrs. Schultzburg reconsider her action.

Carmel friends of Archie Kay, for some years the efficient clerk of Monterey, will be surprised to learn that he has resigned his municipal job to engage in private business. Arthur Mason, once a candidate for justice of the peace, is the new city clerk.

Up to date news of Christian work in Korea will be presented at 3 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 22, at the Presbyterian chapel, following which the annual meeting and election of officers of the Carmel Missionary Society will take place. All interested are invited.

Fred C. Cooley, manager of the Salinas district of the California State Automobile Association, has resigned and is now residing at Fulton. J. E. Forest is the new manager.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Swain have put in some hard work getting their Dolores street cottage in shape, and are now prepared to receive their friends. Mrs. Swain was formerly Mrs. Schumacher.

Dr. C. F. Jarvis and mother-in-law motored down from the bay to spend the week-end with Mrs. Jarvis in her new home, the prettily altered Comings cottage

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stewart and Captain and Mrs. W. L. Maxwell drove over to Watsonville last Thursday for trees and shrubs for their spring gardening.

D. H. Corson and family have left for southern California, perhaps to be away a month or two. They will spend the summer here, however, having made plans to camp on their Eighty-acre Tract lots.

The Washington's Birthday dinner dance at the Rancho La Playa takes place on Tuesday evening, February 21. This announcement corrects last week's item and advertisement in which it was stated that the affair was to be on the 22nd.

Those table rapping affairs that Leonard Perry has been attending lately should have given him some warning concerning the mishap which attended his motor car last Saturday night. Fortunately he escaped with a few scratches. Try the Ouija board next time, Leonard.

Mrs. Louise Bayard has returned to Palo Alto. Mrs. Bayard is anxious to get a cottage and spend the summer months in Carmel. She is the daughter of Thomas F. Bayard of Delaware, ambassador to the Court of St. James during the second Cleveland administration.

Two lively streams continue to find their way through town to the Carmel river. One carries the water from the hills east of town through the Chandler property and down Mission street to the canyon beginning at Eighth and Mission. The other runs down San Carlos to Eighth street and down Eighth to the same canyon.

Choral Society is Doing Quite Well Thank You!

Marked improvement was noticeable at the Choral Society's "Crucifixion" rehearsal last Tuesday evening—on which night future practices will be held. Producers Cator and Newberry are correspondingly encouraged. More masculine thunder could be tolerated on the back benches, and many of the tenors are still conspicuous by their absence. But there's known to be plenty of timber of good quality and the scouts are rounding 'em up.

A Word to Property Owners

Why get "faked" every year by having your roof painted with gas tar or a fish-oil paint? There is positively no protection in that kind of roof paint. Prices alone prove nothing in roof protection. Quality and price must be considered together to determine money value. F. B. Kelly's Ironclad Roof and Metal Paint is not gas tar, or a fish oil or any other kind of a "fake" paint. Ironclad will give you your money value in roof protection for 5 to 6 years. A word to the wise. F. B. KELLY, Box 35, Carmel, California.

STAGE IS SET FOR OCEAN AVE. PAVING

It looks as though Ocean avenue is to really be paved. Tuesday night was the final day for protests.

The moment was tense, dreading the arrival of a protestant, and when Herbert Hand blew in he almost created a panic, because every one took him for an objector. But when he leaned innocuously against the door the tension was off and the half dozen citizens who packed the chamber heaved a sigh of relief.

The resolution ordering the assessment was then passed, and when the returns come in the board will advertise for bids.

The electrical inspector's fees were fixed at $1 a permit and 5c for each additional outlets.

The board has finally put in motion all the necessary machinery for actually paving our main thoroughfare.

B. W. Adams took one of his occasional trips to San Jose on Monday.
